OXFORD'S GOOD RACE

McLaughlin's Colt Carries 130 Pounds to Victory.

MONTFORT AGAIN A WINNER

Handicap for Two-year-olds Handily Won by R. T. Wilson's Colt-Favorites Beaten in Unwieldy Fields in the First and Second Races-Blue Pigeon Leaves the Maiden Class.

When Oxford yesterday carried 130 pounds over a route of a mile and seventyyards in heavy going, he established himself as a thoroughbred in a class of his own among those that have presented themselves before Benning crowds this fall. The son of Faraday-Aunt Belle was conceding forty-four pounds to Billy Ind. Garth's Lady Vera, and twenty pounds to Jack Joyner's Watergrass. These were the three left in the last race, a handicap for two-year-olds and upward. Oxford won the race so handily that the gray colt could have given pounds more to the others, and still gained a victory After the withdrawal of Pater, Workman, and Banker, opinon was divided as to whether Oxford could successfully handle his big impost, and with a mere feather on Lady Vera, the latter was strongly supported to beat the McLaughlin entry. Oxford opened a 3 to 5 favorite, with Watergrass at 5 to 2, and Lady Vera at Watergrass at 6 t and some slates holding even money; while Watergrass was so little cared for track will be built at once. while Watergrass was so little cared for that the filly advanced to 4s and 5s, with only a few takers, compared to the play only a few takers, compared to the play those heavily interested in the new ventors of those heavily interested in the new ventors of the late Capt. He was under wraps, while both Lady Vera and Watergrass sprinted for seven-eighths of a mile. Then Miller gave Oxford his head and he passed the leaders and came away in a gallop, while there was a driving battle for the place. The distance was a trifle too far for Garth's young filly and she was beaten a small margin by the Watercress filly.

Miller on Two Winners.

This was Miller's second victory of the in the first race, in which there was an unwieldy field of eighteen starters. He got third place in this race, following Red Knight past the judges. In the next race he rode Speed Queen, the favorite, among twenty maiden two-year-olds.

It was the biggest bunch of youngsters that went to the post this meeting, but the public appreciated the fact that Mil-Icr was capable of getting the best of the break, which means almost a victory in the sprints. A 20 to 1 shot, Lee Harrison II, and a 30 to 1 shot, Tuckernuck, finished in front of Speed Queen, who could do no better than third. Miller was again third in the third race, when Hooray and Voladay caught the judges' eyes before Dekaber flashed by the finish,

It was a poor card for the fourth day of the Benning races. The first two events were hampered by large fields, the third was a selling affair for three-year-olds and upward, the fourth was marred by scratches, and the fifth was for maid-ens who have struggled for two years without gaining a victory. It was a mis-erable lot that were placed in the hands of Starter Cassidy, and the horses were rid den by boys who had not won more than Lone Hand and Red Knight were off in the first flight in the opening race, and Miller opened three lengths to keep clear of the large field. Red Knight raced nearly as far in advance of the others, but after going most of the way Lone Hand gave way to Red Knight and the favorite, Bohemia, who came strong at the end.

Lee Harrison II Outclasses Field.

Lee Harrison II was the best of the twenty starters in the second race, a five and a half furling sprint. Mercado, a stable boy, got away in front, and Lee urday, A. L. Aste's Hooray was quoted strong play was made on the Cahill entry and the colt became a slight favorite over Hooray. Father Bill Daly's Gentian made all the running until near home, when he stopped to a walk. Hooray, always well passed Transmute, who also was tired, and Dekaber came up from sixth position and got the show end of the purse.

Oraculum made a strong bid for victory in the fourth event at six furlongs, but after leading half the way showed that he Oraculum had a stiff fight to save the place from Killochan.

Four steeplechasers and two others of little account made up the party in the fifth, Garterknot was installed favorite, with Blue Pigeon, Noblesse Oblige, and Sta Snow King equal second choices at the son close. Blue Pigeon was so much better than the rest of her company that she galloped in with five lengths to spare.

but the young man had an old head on young shoulders. He was clever and hard-worked, and, moreover, possessed a great amount of tact. The result was that he not only retained the old clients of the firm, but secured new ones, and under his sway the businessy was more flourishing than ever. Also Mark Durham did not neglect social duties, and by his charm of manner, bucked by undentable business qualities, he managed to pick up many wealthy clients while enjoying himself. He always had an eye to the main chance, and mingled business, judiciously with sober pleasures.

The office of Durham & Son—the firm still retained the old title, although the son alone owned the business—was near Chancery Lane, a large, antique house which had been the residence of a noble during the reign of the Georges. The rooms were nobly proportioned, their cell-ings painted and decorated, and attached to the railings which guarded the front of the house could still be seen the extinction of the former.
